BDI ADDS TO BEST-SELLING NOVIA COLLECTION WITH HIDDEN SUBWOOFER CABINET

Now shipping the Novia 8426 which innovatively conceals most subwoofer speakers

CHANTILLY, VA. – February 1, 2010 – Home theater never sounded so good – yet looked so beautiful – as with the new Novia 8426 from BDI. Contemporary furniture innovator BDI introduces a revolutionary, problem-solving addition to the best-selling Novia collection, with this first-ever cabinet engineered to conceal a home theater system, including the subwoofer speaker and a center channel speaker.

The Novia 8426 A/V cabinet is designed to tastefully hide a subwoofer, while still providing full sound, which has historically been a design challenge. The Novia 8426 subwoofer compartment is sized to conceal the vast majority of subwoofer speakers, yet allows the sound to travel through Novia's louvered side panel. The top compartment features a flip-down door with speaker fabric to hide a center channel speaker or other component. Below are two shallow adjustable shelves for media storage as well as a full-depth section with adjustable shelves for additional components like a home theater receiver, cable box, DVR, etc.

This new home theater model also includes BDI's signature features, such as hidden wheels, cable management and flow-through ventilation. Overall, the Novia 8426 measures 31" H x 52" W x 22" D, and is available in Natural Stained Cherry or Cocoa Stained Cherry.

"BDI continues to be known for its innovation in home theater furniture design and the Novia 8426 is no exception," says Bill Becker, CEO and Design Director. "A/V enthusiasts will appreciate that the cabinet design does not impede the quality of sound, yet the Novia is also a beautifully made piece of furniture that will enhance any home theater system. It's really the ideal combination of function and design."
